Privacy in the European Union

The EU Data Protection Directive recently in Manchester.

During the two-day conference the some pretty key issues such as the status of implementation of the Directive in Member States is raised.

The proposed new Directive is the subject of co-operation between EU authorities themselves and with other as the European Commission and the European Parliament.

It was obviously quite a packed day.

In particular, Mrs France, the UK Information Commissioner, said after the conference that the data protection Directive is a model for the rest of the world where such a right can be enacted.

The key decisions were:

(a) the commissioners called upon the governments of Member States to ensure that the data protection Directive is implemented.

(b) to ask the Council of Ministers to establish a new Commission to monitor the implementation of the Directive.

(c) the commissioners agreed that the report on the status of implementation should be sent to the European Commission and the European Parliament.
